New Market Service: Soils

On behalf of Williamsburg Environmental Group, Inc. (WEG), I would like to take this opportunity to introduce to you one of WEG's newest market services: Soils. In the past, soils studies have always been a part of WEG's wetland delineation and wetland mitigation services. WEG's new staff of soil scientists extends the capacities at WEG into the land development process. By adding this service as a separate marketing area, we can now provide you, our client, with more detailed soils studies. WEG's experienced soil scientists provide professional services for development projects involving soil mapping, detail soil evaluations for onsite sewage disposal documentation and individual drainfield designs. These soil investigations can be tailored to meet the needs of projects ranging from single lots to large subdivisions and commercial developments. As Authorized Onsite Soil Evaluators (AOSE), WEG soil scientists can streamline the coordination with local Health Departments for the subdivision and individual drainfield permitting processes.

To assist with this new market service area, WEG has teamed up with Certified Professional Soil Scientist (CPSS) and Authorized Onsite Soil Evaluator (AOSE) John D. Harper, Sr. He will be heading up the Soils Market Service Area and supervising our staff soil scientists. Please do not hesitate to contact John, out of our Richmond office, with any questions or concerns you may have regarding soils and your projects:
